

Save the Children

A book drive collects new and/or gently used children's books which can then be distributed to families without books or to other places that reach families in need of books. You can work with local organizations such as schools, businesses or service organizations, and religious organizations/places of worship to promote and help collect books for your book drive. Ideal beneficiaries of your books include daycares or schools, and could also be a source for local reading corners, Little Free Libraries, and other community/family literacy events.
